

The Parental Insight Focus- Parental Insight Online Meeting

The longest running program of Parental Insight is the Parental Insight Meeting methodology.

By creating innovative avenues for parents to resolve in-class barriers to learning, extending parental involvement into the classroom is now only an internet connection away.

Studies show that students achieve greater results when parent involvement is demonstrated through regular parent teacher conferences.

Parents who take advantage of Parental Insight's Online Meeting resolve parent teacher conferences via an online document and video clip exchange of information.

With the aid of actual video clips and assignment examples provided by the teacher, the functional strategy for teaching each child is maximized.

When counselors are needed to address specific behavioral or academic concerns, Parental Insight's Online Meeting is an effective alternative to face-to-face meetings.

Parental Insight's Meeting methodology is also used to engage parent, child and counselors to arrive at meaningful solutions to uncommon behavior as observed by the child's instructor.

As a personal advocacy line for parents with children having developmental disabilities such as Autism, ADD, and ADHD; Parental Insight exists to provide the tools through technology, to help teachers identify problems in children that impede the learning process.

Together with professional references, Parental Insight assist parents identify children needing an alternative learning program when necessary.
